DEMONETIZATION!

The Sherman Law Repealed.

The Silver Fight Ended to be Renewed Before the People.

UNITED STATES SENATE.

WASHINGTON Oct. 27—Mr. Jones resumed his speech. He traced the competition of India in gold and silver to the demonetization of silver in 1873, which was done not by nature, but by legislation. In the course of his speech Mr. Jones said:

"In thiis country it is not possible for the farmer and cotton planter to be benefited directly by protection. By legislation bringing the price of silver to $1 20 an ounce, where the fathers of the republic placed it and not by the market price, there will be an absolutely certain method, without any cost, whatever, to the country, of giving protection to the farmers and cotton planters both north and south."

After reading the letter of the president to Gov. Northern, Mr. Jones said if he had been as explicit before the election as now he would not have been elected.

Mr. Voorhees interrupted: "I understand the senator from Nevada desires to complete his remarks to-morrow. I regret that he is not able to complete now, but I shall not press him In the meantime, as there seems to be no one ready to go on now, and not with a view of denying anybody the privilege of speaking, I ask for a vote on the pending amendment, and let us get along in this way."

Mr. Peffer said he was not ready to vote on the amendment (his own). He desired to submit some remarks in advocacy of it.

After a little parliamentary sparring as to which of the senators, Peffer or Voorhees, was entitled to the floor, Mr. Peffer proceeded. He had discovered in the public prints that he had surrendered and had recommended his political associates to surrender. "Mr, President, we have not surrendered, nor do we intend to. We don't intend to interpose facetious opposition, but at every stage shall interpose determined resistance and determined opposition."

The question was put on the amendment and it was rejected; yeas 28; nays 39. The amendment. voted down, revived, with some slight exceptions, the coinage of 1837 and provided for the free coinage of silver.

Mr. Voorhees then moved that the substitute reported by the finance committee, for the house bill be adopted and asked unanimous consent that after its adoption it might be treated as open to amendment as an original bill would be. To the latter request there was no objection. On his motion the yeas and nays were taken and by a vote of yeas 58, nays 9, the substitute reported by the finance committee was agreed to. Those who voted against the substitute were Allen, Bate, Call, Coke, Irby, Kyle, Peffer, Roach and Vance.

Mr. Perkins, of California, then offered the amendment of which he had given notice Oct. 14. It provides for coining American silver at the existing ratio with seiniorage charges of 20 per cent. No gold issue of less than $10 to be coined, and no legal tender, national currency or treasury notes of less denomination than $5 to be issued. The holder of any standard silver dollars may deposit the same at the treasury or at any assistant treasury of the United States and receive therefor notes of a denomination less than $10, which notes shall have the same legal tender quality as the coin for which they are exchanged.

There shall be appointed five monetary experts, the members of which shall not be otherwise connected with the government, whose duty it shall be to keep the treasury and executive advised on all necessary matters relating to currency.

Mr. Perkins explained the amendment and said that now the slack water of debate had come, the amendment could be discussed and considered dispassionately.

Mr. Stewart called attention to the change on the part of Messrs. Voorhees, Gordon, Ranson, Hill, Mills, Turple and Squire on the silver question, who last spring voted for free coinage and now on Mr. Peffer's amendment, voted against it.

Mr. Allen expressed regret at what he called the "back down to some extent upon the part of the advocates of silver.

Mr. Teller while not favoring heretofore a proposition to coin only silver of the American product as that savored of class legislation, would vote for the Perkins amendment as it was better than the proposed act. Mr. Teller went on to speak with great bitterness of the desertion of the cause of silver by the republican senators. He said the whole question ought to have been settled by a concession to the advocates of silver. Nobody who hears me to-night would disagree with me in this statement if the men sitting in front of me (republican repealers) had been as ready to concede us something as the other men who believed in repeal, of the other side of the chamber. This would have been a compromise not disgraceful and disastrous, but beneficial to us and beneficial to all. "If our railroads can't pay interest on their bonds, that is not our fault. But our personal obligations we pay to the last cent. To me this is the most terrible moment of my legislative life." said Mr. teller with much feeling. "To me it brings more fear than any other since I entered public life. I fear we are entering upon a financial system from which there is absolutely no esscape. I know there will be no favorable legislation for silver until the American people are heard from at the ballot box and heard in a way that will compel attention to their desires. Mr. Presidest, I am not a pessimist; never have been; I am an optomist. I have never seen disaster and distress growing out of policies simply because they did not meet my approval. I have faith in the American people." Here Mr. Teller's voice choked and tears came to his eyes. He spoke most impressively and was accorded the undivided attention of every senator and the galleries. "I have faith in men. I can see the silver lining in a cloud as quickly as any man living. There never is a storm so dark that I cannot see the coming light on the mountain top; but I cannot contemplate this condition of things without absolute terror. It strikes to my very soul and I want to enter this as a warning to the American people, if they will enter upon a system of industrial slavery that will be the worst known to the human race."

The senate then adjourned till 11 o'clock to morrow morning.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The senate resumed its session at 11 o'clock this morning with fifty two senators at their desks.

The repeal bill was taken up at 11:30.

After Messrs. Wolcott and Sherman had spoken on the repeal bill, Mr. Gorman spoke. Mr. Sherman had spoken strongly in favor of repeal. Mr. Gorman, commenting on Mr. Sherman's speech, said: "I am surprised that he should bring in party questions and attempt to take party advantage of delays or mistakes, if there have been mistakes, or now in the closing hours of this great struggle that distinguished leaders should tell us and tell the country that the measure itself will be impotent, that it eliminates silver or its further use for the moment."

Mr. Sherman—I spoke strongly in favor of the use of silver to the largest extent possible.

Mr. Gorman—If I have misunderstood the senator Mr. Allen of this side of the chamber, it seems, shared with me in misunderstanding him—that the passage of the act would not give the relief the country expected. Now do I misrepresent the senator?

Mr. Sherman—I said it might not meet the expectations of the people.

Mr. Gorman—If I understand the position of the democratic party in the begining of this controversy it was that we were pledged to the repeal of the Sherman law. The president of the United States is anxious and earnest in his desire for its repeal. Mr. Gorman then continued.

Mr. Stewart rose when Mr. Gorman took his seat and a burst of good-natured laughter came from the galleries.

Mr. Shoup of Idaho took the floor at 2 o'clock and read a short speech predicting that disaster would follow repeal.

Mr. Perkins' amendment was rejected, 40 to 30.

Mr. Berry said that the Bland-Allison act ought to be a measure which the democrats could agree upon. He spoke, he said, for the silver democrats of the southern states whose people demanded something for silver. Mr. Berry referred to the proposed compromise which thirty-seven democrats signed, even though the silver men did not believe in it. He said the democrats should assemble in caucus and agree, but this plan had been refused. [illegible] democrats over the southern democrats was obtained under the leadership of the senator from Ohio (Sherman). He then offered an amendment providing for the revival of the Bland-Allison act.

Mr, Voorhees said that at this late hour, however much he might approve any proposition, he would not feel at liberty to support it in connection with this bill.

Mr. Harris—If the senator from Indiana should hereafter report any one of those propositions which he cannot approve to-day, his allies over there on the other side will have gone.

"You all admit this is a pernicious law," Mr. Voorhees proceeded. "Even its distinguished author, with a manliness that does him honor, admits that the experiment failed which he had hoped might have succeeded. An opportunity will be given for freer, fairer, more deliberate action on the proposition embodied in the amendments than we have in connection with this bill. The senator from Ohio announced here to-day that he had dropped the amendment the amendment he had contemplated, authorizing an issue of government bonds. I am opposed to all amendments to this bill. I have not felt myself at liberty to volunteer measures of relief for the treasury until I should be notified that the treasury needs assistance. I believe the enactment of '75 gives authority to the secretary of the treasury to issue bonds and the secretary of the treasury believes the same thing himself." Mr. Voorhees said he hoped to have a vote at 2 o'clock Monday and certainly not later than 4 on the bill. It is the intention to hold a continuous session Monday until a vote is had.

Mr. Berry's amendment was rejected by a vote of 33 yeas to 37 nays.

Nr. Allen's amendment for the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 was rejected—31 to 41.

Mr. Blackburn's amendment was rejected—28 to 42.

Mr. Stewart's amendment inviting the republics of Central and South America to join the United States in convention was rejected—32 to 42.

The first section of Mr. Squire's amendment was rejected—20 to 42. The second section was withdrawn.

Mr. Butler did not offer, as proposed, his amendment for the repeal of the state bank tax.

The amendment offered by Mr. Peffer was rejected, yeas 7, nays 58.

Mr. Allen's amendment was lost, 28 to 41.

Mr. Peffer offered an amendment which was voted down without resorting to a roll-call.

Mr. Harris did not offer or ask a vote upon his amendment.

Mr. Pasco offered an amendment which was not read, but ordered printed with the understanding that it could be offered Monday.

The senate then went into executive session at the expiration of which a recess was taken until Monday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—After considerable speaking in the senate by both sides, at 7:20 p. m. the vote was taken on the Vorhees bill which unconditionally repeals the Sherman bill. The vote stands as follows:

YEAS—43.

"Mr. Editor, I am told you called me a swindler in a recent issue of your paper."

"No sir, we only print the very latest news!"—Fliegende Blatter.

cian consenting to such a base betrayal of our national independence should be execrated along with Benedict Arnold.

The control of coinage and of taxation are the highest prerogatives of the sovereignty of the American people. Those who say that the sovereignty of our people in the exercise of either of these prerogatives shall be limited by the will of foreign governments and shall not be exercised without the consent of foreign governments, are as imbecile as they are un-American.

American national independence must be and it will be maintained. Under no circumstances must the American people abdicate their sovereignty or allow it to be limited by acknowledging the right of any foreign power to control their legislation.—St. Louis Chronicle.

The Democrat.

ONE thing is sure, either the Van Alstyne News or Cleveland is very undemocratic.

THE wool men of South west Texas are petitioning congress not to put wool on the free list.

THE "lemonade" drink can be furnished with any kind of poisonous drug you may call for.

THE democratic party has a huge hunk of "chance" which will be disposed of at much less than cost.

ONE who wishes to take a rest at the fairs can do so by crossing their legs and letting himself down. No extra charge.

TO FIND out the position of a party read its platform. To find out the sincerity of that platform watch the action of its promoters.

AN artesian well will be bored a few miles southwest of Cisco.—McKinney Enquirer.

After boring a few miles we hope the borers will strike water.

BRO. WILSON of the Sherman Courier is calling Cleveland a Czar. Never mind, Bro. Wilson, the populists will see that he is dethroned in 1896.

THE NATIONAL ECONOMIST of Washington, D. C., has enlarged to a 16 page paper and is one among the best populist papers of the nation. The subscription price is now $1.00.

WE have before us a special eddition of the MilfordCourier, the columns of which is ladened with a splendid write up of that city and Ellis county. Bro. Jones, you deserve credit for the enterprise.

THE DALLAS News of last Sunday headed an article thus: "Cash will follow confidence and credit." We are prone to believe that this can be reasonably reversed. Confidence and credit will follow cash. See?

DOUBLE the money of a nation, you divide the debt; divide the money, you double the debt—double the money you double the price. Divide the money you divide the price.—Congressman Sibley.

WHEN the silver senators voted against the force bill, democrats lauded them to the skies as grand and patriotic statesmen. Now, these same democrats denounce them as cranks, selfish mine owners, &c.

NEXT Tuesday the state election of Virginia will be held. The populists cannot hope to win the fight for the machinery of the state is against them. They will, however, poll a larger vote than they ever polled before in that state.

THE commorant and the commune are two dangerous elements. In the language of Governor Hogg, the latter is the legitimate child of the former. The happiest condition is the absence of both. Let us honorably strive to obtain this.

IF Mr. Cleveland does not wish to carry out the corrupt design of republicans and greedy desires of eastern and English plutocrats; if he does not desire the division and destruction of his party, and its surrender to a populist faction he will yield to a reasonable and honorable compromise.—McKinney Enquirer.

CONGRESSMAN SIBLEY of Pennsylvania says that there is only $2.58 per capita of silver in the world, and that there is 6 per cent more silver in the world than gold. He further says that three fifths of the nations of the earth are on either a silver or bi-metallic base.

THE repeal bill passed by the senate was concurred in yesterday (Wednesday) by the lower house. The vote shows 191 voting for the bill and 91 against it. It was immediately sent to the president who signed it. Thus the purchasing clause of the Sherman law is repealed and "we will see what we see."

Americans have fought two wars for majority rule. In this country a majority must rule. If a minority rules wherein does America differ from nations governed by kings and lords? If a few senators can paralyze legislation why not one? If one can why not make him czar?—New York Herald.

If Cleveland can defeat the will of the people why not make him "czar." Cleveland is the biggest filibuster and bulldozer, against the will of the American people, we have.

TEN to one the next democratic national convention will declare for the full restoration of silver to its ancient place in the coinage of the country.—Fort Worth Gazette.

That is a safe bet. The democratic party is always declaring for something it don't want. The last platform and the action of its promoters in congress proves our assertion. Get up the bet and we will go in "cahoots" with you.

EVEN the populists in Iowa now admit that Gov. Boies will be re-elected. The democrats and populists in eleven counties elect officers by divide between themselves.—Sherman Courier.

You seemed to have dropped the stale "argument," that the populist party was brought into existence to smash the democratic party. Now, "honest injun," Bro. Wilson, would you not like to see the populists knock the everlasting daylights out of both the old parties?

A NATIONAL debt has become almost an institution of European monarchies. It is viewed in some of them as an essential prop to existing governments. Melancholy is the condition of that people whose government can be sustained only by a system which periodically transfers large amounts from the laborers of the many to the coffers of the few. Such a system is incompatible with the ends for which our republican government was instituted. —President Polk, Inaugural address March 4, 1845.

MAYOR CARTER HARRISON, of Chicago was assassinated last Saturday evening at his own home in that city by a crank who claimed that the mayor had promised him an office and failed. The assassin surrendered at once and gave his name as Eugene Patric Prendergrast, a paper carrier. He fired three shots from a revolver into the mayor's body, who died within twenty minutes. The dead mayor was an ex-member of congress, had been elected mayor five times. He has been twice married and was engaged to a third lady to be married within a few days. He is a cousin to Ex-President Ben Harrison and related to other distinguished personages. It is thought that his assassin was crazy.

WILL the democratic "repealers" over look that plank in the democratic platform which says: "We demand the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on state banks." It may be that this, like the silver plank, was only made for electioneering purposes.—McKinney Enquirer.

A KANSAS man has been fined $200, sent to jail for sixty days, and required to give $2,000 bond not to engage in the saloon business again, all for selling a 5-cent glass of beer.—Fort Worth Gazette.

Who said that there is no hibition in Kansas?

THE democratic party employed filibustering against the "force bill." Now a few leaders of that party are talking about the "dignity" of the senate. They affect to despise filibustering and now join hands with Tom Reed of Maine who they formerly nenounced as a "czar." Consistency certainly fled on Terrell's Mule.

Prof. H. P. Attwater of Rockport, the celebrated naturalist of Texas, gave us a most pleasant call last last Friday. The professor is a genial gentleman and expressed astonishment at the wonderful productive power of Collin county. He had never seen such a live business city as McKinney, whose streets were crowded with wagons ladened with the substantial products, such as only rich soil can produce.

I FEEL that we have swept bevond the magnitude of the mere repeal of the Sherman act to the greaier and higher question whether this body shall be governed by the majority or whether the minority shall victate. Shall the many govern or shall the few?—Senator Voorhees.

We believe we understand you, senator. You want Cleveland as an agent of Wall street and foreign dominators to boss the whole business. Put your ear to the heart of the masses and realize the mighty throb of indignation.

A ROCKY ROAD.

Judge Reagan has said that he is not and will not be a candidate for governor. At least, he is so reported. One thing however and that is, the race for governor next year is not going to be a jug handled, Judge Reagan, if a candidate would not have a walk-over, neither will any other man have.—Houston Post.

THE TWIN DEVILS.

Mr. Sibley of Pennsylvania in his celebrated speech in congress a few days since made the following forcible warning to the body:

"In the name of 67,000,000 American citizens we plead for more money, and in the name 2,400 you not only refuse our demand, but purpose the taking away of one-half of what we have left. Prompted alone by our love for rich and poor, by our love for the peace and welfare of our common country, let us warn you that the masses of the people are aroused. All over this fair land they are on their knees in prayer. Their wails have been heard at the throne of the Almighty. My friends, hunger and cold know no philosophy and respect no laws, and when these twin devils are let loose and you force them out upon the world—

"Then woe to the robbers who gather
In the fields where they never have sown;
Who have stolen the jewels from labor
And builded to Mammon a throne.

"For the throne of their god shall be crumbled
And the scepter be swept from his hand,
And the heart of the haughty he humbled,
And a servant be chief of the land.

"For the Lord of the harvest hath said it,
Whose lips never uttered a lie,
And his prophets and poets have read it
In symbols of earth and of sky.

"That to him that hath reveled in plunder
Till the angel of conscience is dumb,
The shock of the earthquake and thunder
And tempest and torrents shall come."

—Congressional Record.

Just think of a renter paying $3.50 to 6.00 per acre for land to raise 50 ct wheat, 20 ct oats and 7-1-2 ct cotton. One acre of wheat will make about 15 bushels. This at 50 cts will bring $7.50. This amount minus $4 rent will leave the tenant $3.50 to pay for plowing, and reaping. Cursed be such a system, no matter how it it is brought about.

Stronger and Better in Every Way.

"I have been more than pleased with Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have suffered with tetter breaking out on my face and all over my body all my life. I never could find anything to do it good until I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have now used about eight bottles, and Oh, it has done me so much good that I have the utmost faith in it and recommend it to everyone. Besides purifying my blood, it has made me so much stronger and better I do not feel like the same person at all." ANNIE ARNER, Augusta, Ky.

ENLISTING.

Bolter Bolts in Iowa.---We Have Come to a Parting of the Ways.

Ex-Senator L. R. Bolter, of Iowa, who has been a member of the legislature of Iowa for the last twenty-five years, and for ten years the democratic leader in the senate, has repudiated democracy. In a letter to the state chairman of the peoples party of Iowa under date of October 2, 1893, he says:

"We have come to a parting of the ways. A political revolution is upon us The lines are rapidly forming, but are not yet so distinct as to be visible to the unaided eye. 'The day for separating the sheep from the goats,' or rather from the wolves, draws near.

"The great question now is, whether our system of government shall be plutocratic or democratic. The American people are to-day the greatest debtor people on the earth, and those debts, though represented in different forms, are largely held by Great Britain. To adopt a single gold standard at this time and under such circumstances would be equal to—aye, worse—than placing a British guard over every house.

"The fraud of 1873, miscalled an act of Congress, should unconditionally and without time to debate, be repealed. Nor should congress stop here. A full legal tender paper money should at once be provided for and enough issued directly by the government, not only to relieve the present stringency, but sufficient in quantity to do the vast business of the country on a 'pay-as-you-go' basis.

"The stupendous crime of placing chattle mortgages on children not yet born, by issuing bonds payable by future generations, should not only forever hereafter cease, but any attempt so to do should be regarded and punished, not as a high misdemeanor merely, but as a cowardly felony.

"I am a candidate for no office whatever, nor do I ever again expect to be, hence, this is not said to captivate the populace merely. Nor is it a new born zeal for a recent inspiration, for all who know me best are well aware that these have been my oft expressed sentiments. I had hoped and believed, should the democrtic party, in whose cause I had so faithfully labored all my manhood's years, come into power, it would adopt these or similar measures at once, or without unnecessary delay.

"I find, however, that the power of patronage seems to be greater even than a crown. We are in the midst of such a financial drought as never overshadowed the republic before. Under the present conditions it is clear that all mortgaged houses must go. Tens of thousands of homes that are mortgaged, but whose owners are in debt, must also be swallowed up the same insatiable maw if the present situation continues for even a few months, or at most, a few years. This is admitted by all.

"What remedy is proposed? In Washington we are told by leading men of both parties that the remedy lies in making money still scarcer—the unconditional repeal of the Sherman act. In Iowa we are informed by very high authority that no natural issue need apply for consideration; that we really have no voice or influence whatever in these great and pressing questions; that all our laws in this state lie on the gateway of the beer-keg issue; that if relief shall come at all, it must come through the bung of the beer barrel; that if we can only get a proper legislation on this then will the rocks not only pour forth rivers of oil, but we shall be enabled to wash our weary feet, not in water, but in beer.

"Thanking you for your kind invitation to enter the canvase, will say I am not yet in a situation where my work, such as you suggest, would be of value to the cause. Having been a democrat all my life, and claiming the above expressed views to be in full accord with true democracy as indicated by its patriotic founders, its platforms and all its traditions, I still prefer to be classed and known as such."

Mr. Willie Tipton is still very sick.

Uncle Bob Carpenter's brother and family have moved here from Kentucky.

Mr. Jim Webb, of Dallas, is here.

Your correspondent and life partner and most everybody else, in this community, visited the Dallas fair last week. I can say, for myself, I had a most enjoyable time. We visited the fair on Thursday and went to the opera that night, and Friday morning we visited the Mercury office and had a pleasant talk with Bros. Tracy and Park. We visited the cour house and went up to the top of it and had a fine view of the city. From there we went to Oak Cliff.

Prof. Trotter's school commences to-day.

The time of meeting of our alliance has been changed from 7.30 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. on the second and fourth Saturdays.

There will be a party given to the young people at E. C. Forbes to night.

Best wishes to THE DEMOCRAT, its editor and many readers. F. E. M.

Editor Democrat:

There is a large number of imported cotton pickers in this community. Cotton is about three fourths out and if this weather lasts two weeks it will be picked.

Prof. Bickley was over this week to see about beginning his school. It will probably begin November 20.

We have a good prayer meeting at this place. It is attended by a large congregation, and is doing effective work. The little girls, especially are to be commended for their sweet singing.

Rev. Dunn, of Merritt, preached the funeral of two little children of Mrs. France at Snow Hill Sunday. Many from here attended. The sermon showed a great effort on the part of the preacher to set forth the resurrection, and was very effective upon the congregation.

At the last meeting of the alliance there was an unusual number present, besides many visitors from Altoga Alliance. There was unusual interest manifested by both young and old. The prospects before our alliance are brighter now than they have been for sometime. Few members are coming in, and old ones reinstating, and all seem to be more determined. Let us move upward and victory will crown our efforts.

Preserve the Parity.

More than twenty years ago we established a parity between golden fruits and silver cents of 15 to 1 and have maintained it up to the present time—and, the Lord being willing, we will continue this adjustment to the end of time.

Those who are fearful of a flood of the cheap metal who may present $10 or more will have it redeemed at a parity of 10 to 1.

DRINK VICTIM.

He Pleaded His Own Case and Appealed for Mercy.

Ed Crute, an aged man, in the district court entered a plea of guilty, last Tuesday, to a charge of burglary. He stood before a jury and in the most eloquent terms pleaded for mercy. He said that he had been raised a gentleman, had served as a school teacher and book keeper many years. At last strong drink had captured his appetite and brought him down to a common rail road hand, thence to the jail, and now he stood before a jury of his fellowmen pleading to be shielded from a sentence to the penitentiary on the charge of burglary, the cause of which was to gain money to buy whisky to satisfy a raven appetite. He quoted from Shakesbeare and other authors on the subject of mercy. His speech made an impression on the judge, jury, lawyers and spectators. After his speech bis lawyers declined to address the jury. The jury returned a verdict of two years in the penitentiary, the lowest punishment provided for by the law.

The Best Plaster.—Dampen a piece of flannel with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bind it on over the seat of pain. It is better than any plaster. When the lungs are sore such an application on the chest and another on the back, between the shoulder blades, will often prevent pneumonia There is nothing so good for a lame back or a pain in the side. A sore throat can nearly always be cured in one night by applying a flannel bandage dampened with pain balm. 50 cent bottles for sale by R. E. Bristol.

A reporter of The Democrat a few evenings ago had his attention called to a chronic growler who was in the habit of getting "boozy" and boring every one he met with long yarns of his family troubles. On one occasion he became a little tipsy, and while passing along the north side of the square of McKinney, he came in front of a dummy. He stopped and saluted the dummy which he took to be an acquaintance, and without waiting for a response, he began to relate his ups and downs,, to the patient listener. For one solid hour, he eloquently and tearfully, unfolded the history of all his troubles to the dummy which seemed to accord the strictest attention to the entire satisfaction of the chronic growler and the bystanders. As a reward to the patient friend, he took it by the arm with the invitation to join him in "rushing the growler." He discovered his mistake and then the "growler rushed" away and has never since bored his fellowmen.

CHALLENGED!

Transportation Land and Finance Discussed.

A Fair Proposition by Jim Davis.

The following circular letter has been sent to the leading statesmen, jurists, and lawyers in the land with an earnest request that it be carefully examined and the fallacies, if any be found in it, noted. Though a month has elapsed since it was issued, not a line has been received denying a single proposition. Can they be refuted? We court refutation.

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Tex.,
Sept. 10, 1893.

As a member of the National Executive Committee of the Populist, or People's Party, I am preparing a book undertaking to support the main features of the Omaha (Populist's) platform from a constitutional and common law standpoint. Said work will treat the following subjects, which I hold to be self evident truths:

1. That the people in the United States are the sole source of power in every form or sub-division of government. That the government was formed for their benefit. That the good of the people is the test by which all our laws should be tried.

2 That the natural rights of all men are equal, and so decreed by his creator. That governments are formed to protect and secure the natural rights of man, and not to destroy them.

3. That one of man's first rights by nature is his right to room on the earth and the use of all the natural elements in the acquisition of comforts and happiness for himself and family. That a regulation of this right of room on the earth, and possession of some portion of its surface, is delegated to government for the common good of society, the future as well as the present; for each being comes into the earth by the same natural law, possessed of the same natural rights. That governments are oppressive when they transfer vast possessions of the earth's surface and contents to one man, or a few men, leaving millions of persons of equal natural rights to the same, disinherited.

That flesh and blood, as a reasonable creature in being, inherits the earth from his creator; hence, a corporation, having no life in reason and being, should not be allowed to own land except in easement and occupation for a specific purpose of public good, or to hold in trust for the public. As well might the states permit counties, all of which are but one kind of corporations, to tax or lay a tribute on the people at will, buy up, absorb, monopolize, and speculate on the lands. Far better, in fact, for whatever of profit accrued would still belong to the whole people within that incorporated jurisdiction or country.

To correct the present evils, a reasonable law of "mortmain" should be established, protecting man in his natural rights to the land, and preventing these artificial or corporate beings from monopolizing and usurping the soil and its contents.

Also a limit to the right of ownership and possession of the earth by individuals, consistent with the rights of all, and just to the protection of society.

For further argument on this question, I respectfully refer to Jefferson's works, vol. 3, pages 103, 105; vol. 4, page 372; vol. 5, page 136, 137; vol. 6, page 605; vol. 7, pages 16, 311, 356, 555.

4. That public highways are a public necessity. That navigable streams made by nature have from early civilization been held, as such, in trust for public good. That the right to construct other highways, of whatever kind, is an inherent right in government, for public good, under the principle of eminent domain.

Hence, speculative enterprises, whether by individuals or corporations, should not be allowed to own these highways and thereby prey upon the necessities of the public.

That the commerce of civilized society consists in the production and distribution of what is commonly called wealth.

That our forefathers made ample provision for our rights, in this respect, is made clear by the language and spirit of our constitution, wherein it says Congress shall have power to "establish post offices and post roads." Under that word "establish," they have post offices built wherever the public good, or public necessity, requires. Then, why not apply the same word "establish," and build railroads and post roads?

Again, Congress shall have power "to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states," and "No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over those of another." Under these I hold that the government not only has the power, but it is a duty, to operate the railroads. I see no other way to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, so as to "establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity." These are the grand purposes for which our constitution was adopted. Our foreign and domestic commerce is now so intermingled that I see no way to regulate either, as required by the constitution, except by government owning and operating the railroads.

Ports are not only found on the coast now, but "ports of entry" are created all over our land, and while the constitution prohibit any preference being shown, yet all must admit that eastern ports are rapidly absorbing the wealth of the whole nation.

Our governments do not, and cannot, in fact, tax or fine a railroad company. The government only assesses the fine or tax. It serves only as a requisition for the amount so assessed, or judgment so rendered, and is, in law, a part of the "fixed charges, and operating expenses, and the law allows the company to set a traffic rate to pay it.

As well might the nation fine the state, or the state fine the county, each of which would, in turn, assess and collect it from the people. The railroads have more power than the counties in this respect; for the states set the salaries of the county officers, and regulate the rate of taxes, and control their power to issue bonds. Taxation and representation should go hand in hand. To violate this principle is to subvert every known theory of our government. I know of no representation the people have, when a board of directors or "traffic managers" seat themselves in New York and assess the traffic rates of every or any state in the union.

5. That the right and power to coin money is, and ever has been, a sovereign right. That this power is doubly secure in our government is found in the following facts, viz: The confederated colonies dereigned King George in this country and, by right of conquest, succeeded to all his rights in the United States, not inconsistent with the Declaration of Independence, the articles of confederation, and the rights of colonies. Then, when the constitution was formed and adopted, it conveyed the power to congress in the following words: "Congress shall have power to coin money, regulate the value thereof." The states were prohibited from performing this function in the following language: No state shall "coin money, emit bills of credit," etc. Money is made by man, by government law.

From the above, I hold that it is the absolute duty of our federal government to coin money, and to coin enough money, to transact the business of our country, and to see that the money thus coined gets into the channels of trade without fraud, favoritism, or monopoly.

That the emission of bills by government is an act of sovereignty also, and when any government emits bills (bank bills or otherwise) based upon the government debts, said government sets a premium on goverernment debts, encourages governmental extravagance, and the perpetuation of the debt. And when the government still pays interest on the debts, and charters the holders of the debts into banking associations, giving a right and power to loan the bills thus issued, such government commits a fraud udon its people by making them pay interest both on the debt and on the bills or bank notes, of which the debt is the base. Far better would it be to adopt the principle recommended by the Farmer,s Alliance, of emitting bills based upon the land and product, or wealth of the country. This would set a premium on industry and production, and each annual increase of production would call for an emission of bills necessary for its own consumption, the government holding the product in trust. As it was consumed the bills would be returned. This, I befieve, would be the climax and fruition of our governmental power to coin money. Leaving our regular volumes of metallic and other monies undisturbed, to carry on our regular foreign and domestic trade.

6. That to strike down silver, or impair the money function of either gold or silver while we have more than nine billion dollars worth of legal debts contracted to be paid in these coins, is a crime against our people who owe these debts.

To stop the coinage of the silver dollar of 412 1-2 grains is to violate the contract under which our debts were made; and to refuse to coin silver, is to render it impossible to pay the debts, which means the perpetuation of the debts, together with the evils of its attendant banks and bank bills, inflation, contraction and periodic panics.

7. I lay these down as axioms of truth and maxims of law.

1. No nation, state, county or municipality, has the right to take one dollar's worth of wealth or substance of the individual, except for the purpose of an honest, economical and just administration of government. Neither the United states a single county nor municipality can give an individul or corporation a right to do something it had no right to do itself through its own functions.

Hence, if governments have the power to charter railroad companies, to operate rail roads, they have the power to operate them themselves; and it is only a question of which can do it better for the people, the chartered institutions or the government. The judge of a court, having no right to set his own salary, should not, and in justice, cannot, have a right to set the salaries of receivers and officers of corporations.

"Public office is a public trust," and all offices created by law are public offices. If an office be created by law, either direct or indirect, with power in law to assess tax, toll or traffic, to pay the salary of such office, and with no reservation in law to set such salary, compel an oath of office and obligation to the public, then it is a "title of nobility," a species of largess which neither nation nor state can confer under our constitution.

I hold that offices of all corporations are created by law, and are public offices, especially those officers operating highways, and holding a power to regulate commerce. Hence, they should be under oath of office, their salaries regulated by law, etc.

I hold that in view of the fact that the states are prohibited by the federal constitution from emitting bills, it is unconstitutional for the state to charter banks and give them a power to emit bills or bank notes.

I hold that the constitution of the United States is a power of attorney by the people (who are the source of the power), limiting, specifying and directing the powers, duties and conduct of the three co ordinate branches of the government And there being no power given in the letters attorney to transfer there is no right to transfer. Hence, the right to regulate commerce and coin money must be performed by the general government. It cannot constitutionally be abandoned and left to banks and corporations.

Now, I want to arrive at truth and justice, and appreciating your ability, and feeling that it is the patriotic duty of all our people to help solve the problems of distress, and right the wrongs of which most all our countrymen complain, I send you this circular letter, and invite your full criticism of each and every proposition, and ask the priviege of publishing same in our work.

I have kept a register of each person to whom I have sent this letter, and if not answered within the next four weeks, I hope you will take no umbrage at the publication of your name as one to whom the letter was sent.

With much respect.

The Bond Age.

There never should have been issued a government bond.

The government had no need to borrow money. It did not borrow much. It created it.

Why should the government, more than man, borrow what it can make, and what it alone can make?

Government can make money. No other power or person can; hence the folly of borrowing.

The people are the government. Why should they borrow of themselves?

It is a system of class villainy, invented by Shylock conspirators.

The government should replace the bonds—take them up—by issuing and paying them off in the same kind of money it sold them for.

The people should demand this.

Why do they not?

It is because they are kept in ignorance by the old party leaders and their wicked subsidized press.

The people must be educated, enlightened.

The cheapest, best and most effective way to do this is to circulate the anti-monopoly papers.

Every reader of this paper and other similar papers should try, earnestly, to secure subscribers for them.

Such service is more to their interests than to the publishers'.

Loan your papers to the readers of the old party press. Send for sample copies to show your neighbors, so as to induce them to read and become wiser. Soon, they too, will learn that government bonds are the people's manacles.

That they are frauds.

That usury is robbery.

That every hard money dollar costs the people two.

These and a thousand other kindred truths, although stale to greenbackers, are yet unknown to the mass of hard money sinners, who know nothing about them, nor never will while they read only the Shylock papers.—Chicago Express.

Pointedly Put.

A cold church needs a preacher with a warm heart.

Pride is one of the hardest snakes in the world to kill.

No good man ever dies without making living people rich.

The hardest battles we fight are the ones we have with ourselves.

People who really love God will manage to find a way to show it.

When you want to lead a soul to Christ get very near to God yourself.

The more thankful we are the more God will give us to be thankful for.

Follow Christ closely, and God will take care of the who follows you.

The best time to keep away from some people is when you are in trouble.

To be acquainted with some people is a standing invitation to go to heaven.

Everything we do for Christ has something to do with making us like him.

The christian who never smiles is a living slander against the goodness of God.

The man who never pays for a sinner will not do anything to try and save one.

The bible is the only book ever written that describes God, man and the devil clearly.

God,s hold on a man's heart as long as the devil's claws run through his pocketbook.

No man can add a cubit to his statue, but the self-conceited man is always trying his best to do it.

Men who howl at the passing of the plate in church will pay a big hotel bill without a murmur.

The Same Old Tale.

The following is an extract from a letter written by a plain old farmer of Sumpter county, Ga., to the Americus Times-Recorder:

There is much being said in the country about hard times and the scarcity of money, and as everybody has a cause and knows a remedy, I thought I would write and tell your readers what I think is the cause. The trouble is, we buy more than we produce. There is too much flour and bacon shipped here every year. The things we ought to make at home we are buying.

We let our timber rot and buy our plow stocks, singletrees, ax handles, hoe handles and fencing.

We throw away our ashes and buy soap and axle grease.

We give away our beef hides and buy hame strings and shoe strings.

We let our manure go to waste and buy guano.

We buy garden seed in the spring and cabbage in the winter.

We let our land grow up in weeds and buy our brooms.

We let the wax out of our pine and gum trees go to waste and buy chewing gum for our children.

We build school houses and hire teachers and send our children off to be educated.

We land a 5 cent fish with a $4 fishing rod.

We send a 15-cent boy out with a $20 gun and a $4 dog to kill birds.

We raise dogs and buy wool.

And about the only thing in this country that there is an overproduction of is politics and dogtics.

The laboring men of this country want:

Opportunity not preferment
Justice not charity.
Equality not privilege.
Freedom not license.
Prosperity not affluence.
Order not anarchy.
Reformation not revolution.
Homes not tenements.

Less than this in a land of plenty will not satisfy.
